Workplace Wellbeing shouldn't feel like work.

Investing in your employees' health is easier than you think. Especially when you have a partner focused on ensuring your employees have the health care coverage and support they need.

Wellbeing programs don't just keep costs in check. By increasing employee happiness and productivity, they can also help you retain and attract the best talent.

Our Workplace Wellbeing approach

Our wellbeing team is comprised of health and wellbeing professionals who have expertise in nutrition, exercise science, population health management and health care administration. Our wellbeing team partners with you and your employees to develop targeted wellbeing strategies tailored to meet your needs. The result: greater satisfaction and savings, and the best outcomes for your organization and your employees.

Whether you're just getting started or looking to take your wellbeing program to the next level, our team of wellbeing experts is here to help. We will work with you to:

- Collect and analyze claims and other company health data to guide your wellbeing programming choices
- Understand your company culture, industry-specific insights and wellbeing goals
- Provide customized recommendations and work with you to implement your wellbeing strategy
- Provide programming for medical consumerism and lifestyle strategies, including how to find a primary care doctor or dentist, taking prescriptions as directed, managing stress, and quitting smoking
- Educate employees about health plan tools, resources, and wellbeing perks
- Evaluate your programs and policies to see if they're working the way you intended

Helping a top performer feel like herself again

Victoria was a fast-rising star in her organization, full of potential. She pushed herself, but soon found the stress overwhelming.

Victoria had been suffering from anxiety for several years due to work-related pressures. She tried medications, but they didn't seem to help.

She considered looking for a new job, but knew her current position offered great opportunities for growth.

Victoria wasn't alone. Turns out, a lot of other people in her office were stressed.

With the help of their workplace wellbeing consultant, Victoria's employer created a relaxation room that employees can visit to de-stress during intense periods of work.

Victoria was also able to schedule a consultation with a therapist using the telemedicine services available to her.

By taking full advantage of these programs, and working with her doctor, Victoria now has better coping mechanisms for her stress, and feels like herself again.

What it means for your business

Workplace wellbeing isn't just about being generous or helping people get in shape or managing health care costs. It's about supporting your team — creating healthy habits and healthy attitudes — so morale and productivity go up. Your people already want to do a good job. When their minds and bodies are strong, your business benefits from the added energy, creativity, innovation, and commitment.
